DYING IN SQUALOR.

A RETURED MINISTER WHO HAS LIVED A HER-MIT'S LIFE FOR FIVE YEARS.

Egg Harbor City, Feb. 27 .- Jonathan Baehling, a retired minister, is spending his last days of a armit's life and is battling with a disease which sinually suffering, but refuses to take medicine of any kind, as he says he wishes to die, as he has lived for many years. Eighteen years ago he was prominent in religious and social circles, and it was not until the sudden death of his wife that he chose the life of a hermit. He is said to have a comfortable fortune, but does not spend $25 a year

Five years ago he disposed of his handsome brick house and his household furniture. He then moved to an old shanty situated on the outskirts of this city, where he has lived alone. Few people have the interior of his home. He occupies one ill room in a wing of the house and sleeps on a of rags. He does his own cooking. He is ut sixty-five years old, but the manner in which has passed recent years makes him appear many resolder.

rears older.

For years he has not been known to cut or comb his hair, which has grown down his back. He, however, has trimmed his beard on rare occusions. This is only when the hair begins to grow around his eyes. When he goes to the postoffice, a mile from his shanty, for his mail, he puts on a long ulster even in the warmest of weather, and always wears the same stiff hat.

The minister is said to have a son who is at present teaching in a Pennsylvania town. This son

SAVED BY SKIN GRAFTING.

Orange, Feb. 27 (Special).—A remarkable case of successful skin grafting has just been brought to a close in the Orange Memorial Hospital. On Nocember 2 last little Johnnie Thompson, the fouryear-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac W. Thompson. of No. 59 Ashland-avc., East Orange, was playing around a bonnre in the street. His clothes caught fire, and before it could be extinguished the little fellow was horribly burned. He was taken to the Memorial Hospital, where the skin peeled off Memorial Hospital, where the sam peered of his entire chest and part of his abdomen as the clothing was removed. At first it was thought that he could not possibly survive, but he recovered from the initial shock, and then the operation of skin grafting was determined on. Smail pieces of healthy skin were taken from his father's arms and grafted in, and these foliated and grew together. The process was a slow and tedious one, and was continued till last week, when the little patient was discharged as cured. Altogether over seventy pieces of skin were taken from the arms of the father and grafted on the child's body. During the treatment the little fellow fell away in flesh and became so emaciated that he had to be carried about on a pillow. Within the last few weeks he has picked up health and flesh, and when discharged from the hospital on Thursday, he was rosy-cheeked and in perfect health. The operation had been watched with the greatest interest by the medical men of Orange, for it is one of the most extensive of the kind on record. his entire chest and part of his abdomen as the
